

Education in China

Currently, an increasing number of young people prefer to learn at home and abroad. How to explain such a trend in fashion or a desire to expand the horizons of knowledge – hard to say, but the fact remains.

Every person is free to choose where to receive higher education. Many prefer to go to America, because I know English, others tend to take risks, and go for knowledge in the East of the country. And, despite the fact that to fly to China very far, an increasing number of young talented people are buying tickets and bet on this Eastern civilization.

China is the dominant country, momentum is growing every day. It becomes increasingly important not only from an economic point of view but also from cultural. Makes life customwriting difficult for fans of China country only the language barrier. After all, live in a foreign country without knowing its language, is very difficult.

Unfortunately, the Chinese can not be called simple and accessible language. Its roots go back far into the past. But this does not mean that it is impossible to master. Knowledge of Chinese language opens to young people excellent prospects. Very popular school "Hua Chiao". The work in this educational institution aimed at teaching Chinese to foreign students.

When coming to China immediately to sign up for classes in "Hua Chiao" the knowledge of a complex language will soon be available. Individual approach to each pupil allows to achieve excellent results in a short time. The great advantage of the institution is that the tuition fee does not exceed the rates of other schools.

It is in the "Hua Chiao" exploring the language of the majority of young people, born and raised in the post-Soviet space. In fact, the education system in China differs little from the European. The University can proceed only after the exam HSK reaching 18 years of age. HSK is a common exam for the Chinese language. His pass only those young people who are not native speakers of Chinese, i.e. newcomers. Qualifying exam HSK is compulsory for all and takes place several times during one academic year.

Chinese education system involves three steps:

- bakalavriat (4-5 years);
- master's degree (2-3 years);
- doctorate (3 years).

If a young man finishes Chinese school and is fluent in a foreign language, before it opens excellent prospects. He won't be restrained in their activities only because of the fact that he had been born in another country. The Chinese are very peaceful people, who is respectful to other people's knowledge.