

Online masters: the Americans are preparing a leap in education

Georgia Institute of technology, one of the leading American universities, plans to open an online Informatics course, after which students will receive masters degrees.

This step can prove to be a watershed event in the history of University education with attention to several aspects.

First, Georgia Institute of Technology is the first educational institution in the U.S. that offers a full online University course including obtaining a master's degree. Previously, no one in the US, this has been proposed, although many universities have conducted some courses for online students. For example, two years ago free online course studying issues of artificial intelligence, organized by Stanford University, has attracted 170 thousand students from around the world.

Second, Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta is considered an elite University, such as Stanford University or Massachusetts Institute of technology. The diploma of this institution means a lot in the labor market.

Thirdly, training on the complete online course computer science Georgia Institute of technology will cost the student only 6.6 thousand dollars a year (under the current annual price of 45 thousand dollars for stationary student on campus). For students who want to take this course of Informatics in Atlanta, but do not want a diploma, the training will be completely free.

Georgia Institute of technology believes that an online Informatics course to attract about 10 thousand students from all over the world. "If you're studying online, you have no visa problems" is the Dean of the faculty of Informatics of the Name Galil.

Planned annual costs of the Institute on online course computer science is $ 3.1 million; estimated revenue is 240 thousand dollars.

"It is uncharted territory, and no one really knows if it will pay off. But we want to prove that it is possible to offer high quality master's program at a small expense," - said Dean Galil edition of the International Herald Tribune.

It is easy to guess that this demonstration of an online course in the Georgia Institute of technology will closely monitor all other universities in the country. If you find that it is possible to efficiently prepare a full masters only a small part of the current price of University education, educational, experiment Georgia can lead to the present coup, as mba admission essay writing service in the stationary system of University education and the system of payment for it.